It asserts that 8,150,000 deposits were affected by bank failures during the Hoover administration, compared to 342,700 during the first years of the present administration.

DUBINSKY HITS
JOHN HAMILTON FOR SYMPATHIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—David Dubinsky, president of the International Garment Workers union, accused John M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, of Fascist sympathies today.

Replying to Hamilton's charge that he is a communist and should be removed as a Democratic elector in New York state because "he collected money for the Spanish civil war," the union leader said the $5,000 sent by his union went to the labor Red Cross with the stipulation that it be spent exclusively for medicines, food and clothes.

Under the same logic by which he was accused of communism Dubinsky said, Herbert Hoover could be accused similarly for relief work in Russia in 1919-20.

REBELS TO DRIVE TOWARD MADRID
ON FIVE FRONTS

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 5—(UP)—Madrid leaders predicted today that this week would see the beginning of the insurgent attack on Madrid and that the capital's fate, and perhaps that of the government, might be decided this week end.

Loyalists in the Toledo area began an attempt to cut the long rebel lines of communication in the Toledo-Maqueda area, a life line for supplies and reinforcements to the west.

Leaders seemed increasingly sanguine of their chances of defeating Madrid successfully.

The insurgents disclosed plans to attack the capital on five main highways into Madrid, from south, southwest, northwest, north and northeast.

A preliminary phase of the rebel attack was under way with minor offensives in the San Martin in Valdeiglesias zone west of Madrid and the Sigüenza zone northeast of the capital. These, however, were but small parts of a big plan of operation.

It was indicated, despite the loyalist predictions that this week would see the definitive phase of the Civil war, that the insurgents would move cautiously.

FRENCH FASCIST
ACTIVITY HITS

PARIS, Oct. 5—(UP)—French fascists, pursuing a new line of attack against the left front government, are trying to undermine the loyalty of the national police force.

As part of the campaign, they began today a fierce attack on the regular police forces and at the same time appeared to be trying to win to their cause the crack mobile guards, corps d'elite of the national police who constitute the shock troops against disorderly elements.

To meet the threat that loyalty of some of the law and order forces may be undermining, the government, it was learned, began quietly shifting key men in the armed forces.

The new turn to the fascists attacks was accompanied by reports that the smuggling of arms into France from Switzerland was directly due to fascists.

Rumors that have developed from this phase of fascist activity caused Bishop Maurice Du Bourg, of Marseilles, to send a circular letter to newspaper editors denying that churches and convents in his diocese were being used as fascist arms depots in preparation for the outbreak of civil war. Bishop Bourg offered to open any church or convent for inspection.

Pearson and Gehrig Pair Up to Beat Hubbell

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—Faced with the task of winning three consecutive baseball games against a hit-crazed Yankee team, Memphis Bill Terry of the Giants sent Hal Schumacher, young righthander, to the mound this afternoon in the fifth World's Series game.

Schumacher was clubbed out of the box early in the second game, which Joe McCarthy's boys took by a record score of 18-4.

McCarthy ordered Red Ruffing, big right-handed victim of Carl Hubbell in the opener, to the hill. Ruffing twirled a creditable ball game against the Giant ace, whose defeat Sunday at the hands of Monte Pearson and Lou Gehrig about clinched the series for the Yankees.

It was Pearson's fine pitching and Gehrig's second home run of the series that knocked off Hubbell, 5 to 2.

If Schumacher should upset the Yankees Terry will have Fatty Fred Fitzsimmons ready to go Tuesday in the sixth game. McCarthy says there will be no sixth game, this afternoon's being the last one.

No changes were contemplated in the starting lineups.

COX TO LAUNCH
SERIES OF TALKS
TO ASSIST F. D. R.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—James N. Cox, Ohio publisher and Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, will make a series of speeches asking President Roosevelt's reelection.

The decision of Cox to take the stump for Roosevelt is intended to demonstrate party regularity in contrast with the stand of Alfred E. Smith the 1928 nominee, according to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman.

Cox will speak from 10 to 10:30 p. m. Friday night over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up from Dayton. It will be an answer to Smith's speech last Friday.

Although Cox, who had Roosevelt for a running mate in 1920, opposed Roosevelt's nomination in 1932, he made one major speech for him that year. This year he will make several on dates yet to be selected.

"I am sure Governor Cox's speech in Dayton on Friday will be listened to with a great deal of interest by the American people," Farley said. "Particularly in view of the fact that another former Democratic standard-bearer has chosen to cast his lot with the Republican cause. Mr. Cox is wholeheartedly in favor of the continuance of the Democratic policies, and will say so unequivocally on Friday night."

Massachusetts, through Attorney General Paul A. Dever, filed a petition as "a friend of the court" supporting New York's plea for a rehearing in the New York wage case which was decided last spring and resulted in wide-spread criticism of the court.

Mazza told Chicago police that he stopped his car after it had plowed into a group of five persons. He drove away, he said, because he feared the crowd that gathered would attack him. Mazza is employed in his father's tavern.

PREMIER COURT MEETS AT NOON FOR NEW TERM

TVA, PWA Power Fights May Climax Session of U. S. Judges

TO DELAY DECISIONS

Barristers to Visit F. D. R. Sometime in Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — (UP) — The Supreme court of the United States meets at noon today for a session that will bring before the nine black-robed justices important federal and state cases.

Decisions as to whether the National Labor Relations Act, the AAA, the NRA, the Guffey coal act and upheld the gold clause amendment are expected before the court adjourns nine months hence.

Questions of national control over labor regulations, matters of power policy, farm refinancing, social security and gold and silver policies are on the court's docket. There are 425 other cases of state and local importance.

To Delay Decisions

The court resumes deliberations at the height of the presidential election campaign, but is not expected to announce any important decisions before Nov. 3. Its invalidation of key administration measures, which it seemed for a time might result in proposal of a constitutional amendment, has not been a major issue in the campaign.

Administration and important state acts before the court for decision this session are the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the railroad retirement act, TVA, and PWA power activities, and the Washington state minimum wage law for women.

During the summer recess the main courtroom has been refurbished. A new white ceiling has been put in to remedy lighting defects. In a further effort to protect their eyes the jurists have required that all briefs be printed on dull paper which is not transparent.

The opening session will be continued.

SNOW

OCTOBER snow is no new experience for any Northwest states, but it is not always so welcome as this year. In Montana, Wyoming and Colorado an early snow, if accompanied by temperatures below the twenties, goes hard with the range cattle. But this season even those states welcome October snow. Drought has seared both the pasture and the cultivated fields cutting crops short and endangering the natural feed for livestock. The snow not only breaks the drought, but it promises for next year. It is an old maxim that plentiful snow is followed by plentiful crops. Open winters may be easy on the cattle but they mean lean pickings for every one the next summer.

So snow in the West is of more than momentary importance. Because it points to a snowy winter, it probably means good crops next year. Good crop prospects invariably affect the temper of the farmers.

CROPS AND DIETS

DIETS and menus are not determined by fashions and weights alone. People eat certain foods at certain times for the purpose of reducing or gaining weight, or for health reasons or because other foods are scarce or too expensive.

The American diet during the coming winter will be affected by last summer's drought, the government's crop reduction program and price increases resulting therefrom. Families, irrespective of their means, instinctively turn to foods most plentiful and cheapest.

When most of the food supply was raised in the backyard of the family that consumed it the folks ate fruit when there was fruit, food prepared from grain when there was grain and vegetables when the truck garden flourished. When famine was abroad in the land people ate what they could dig out of the earth, pick from trees or catch in the way of fish and game.

This is civilization, but man's diet is still governed in some degree by nature. More so, probably, than man commonly supposes.

But the dietary revisions that may be more or less compulsory until the 1937 harvest will not be the cause of unhappiness or discontent at the average family table. The American housewife is resourceful and ingenious enough to put together what raw materials are at hand and by some sort of magic produce something good to eat.

Budding inventors who are wrestling with mechanical chicken pickers will be disappointed to know they now have a contraption to pick Hollywood choruses.

We have had no reports of late as to just what happened to the Talmadge-for-President boom, or, for that matter, as to what happened to Talmadge.

An onion a day will drive the family away.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to as beautiful a morn as ever have seen, albeit the house being colder than the bright outdoors, so kindled a grate fire and before it had breakfast and perused the cumbersome Sunday papers. Was amused by the opinions of so-called football fans on Ohio State's current team. According to them State exhibited nothing in defeating New York University by a score of 60 to 0. In my humble opinion State had everything and enough of it to go through the season without dropping a conference game. Were this scrivener of the wagering tribe he would designate Ohio as a two touchdown winner over Pittsburgh in next Saturday's contest.

Was greatly saddened by the death of Glenn Nickerson, a man who had commanded my respect from the time I met him. A fine man, a good businessman with the interest of Circleville at heart, a gentleman. Glenn will be sorely missed.

Did learn of another fatal accident at the intersection of highways 104 and 22 west of the village. Will nothing ever be done about that death trap? Route 104 bears stop signs that are placed too close to the intersecting highway and which are so difficult to see that most drivers plunge into deadly danger before realizing the fact. That is one of the most dangerous crossings in Ohio. Many a time I have stopped near there and watched car after car cross Route 22 without slackening speed. It is high time that our county commissioners demand that the state take steps to protect motorists at that point.

Wonder what happened to the street cleaning department Saturday night. Another astounding litter Sunday morning on both Main and Court streets.

Noticed that city hall continues wearing its wooden brassier. Seems a long time since that painting job started. No particular criticism intended, for do know that work must be provided for men on relief and building, tearing down and rebuilding that scaffolding requires a lot of time.

In the afternoon listened in on the wireless as the Yankees once more mowed down the Giants and moved another long step toward world championship. With that game did lose interest in the series and turned attention toward the great gridiron game. Refused an invitation to go hunting Monday, for get little pleasure out of that branch of sport due to constant wonder when another hunter will mistake me for a beastie of the field or forest. These near-cold nights should improve fishing in nearby streams. Certainly they can do no harm to fishing, for there has been little or none this summer.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

SUPREME COURT ON HOT SPOT

WASHINGTON—Those close to certain Supreme Court Justices say that seldom in recent history have the Nine Old Men been on a hotter spot than they are now as they don their robes for the court term beginning today.

Reason is they are called upon to rule immediately on two vital New Deal laws, almost certain to throw the Court into the very middle of the Presidential campaign.

These two laws are the Municipal Bankruptcy Act and the New York Minimum Wage Act, which—although a state law rather than New Deal—was inspired by Roosevelt friends and stands for the same principle Roosevelt stands for.

Both of these were declared unconstitutional by the Nine Old Men last spring, or rather by five out of nine of them. But now the Government and the State of New York have asked for rehearings.

To grant a rehearing it is necessary for at least one of the five conservatives to change his mind and indicate that there is sufficient doubt about the Court's earlier decision to have the case argued again.

But the five conservatives represent an almost solid phalanx against the New Deal. Inside word has it that Butler and McReynolds are most vigorous in their opposition to any rehearing, and are exerting their influence upon conservative colleagues.

Justice Roberts is the key man to keep your eye on. He has been influenced by public opinion in the past, but his close friend Justice Butler hopes to see that he does not switch today.

However, if the Supreme Court vetoes a rehearing on these two laws, public reaction is sure to be against them. Governor Landon already has come out for a minimum wage. Both Democratic and Republican parties are for it.

Furthermore, in the Schechter Sick Chicken Case the Court had claimed that industrial regulation such as minimum wages was the jurisdiction of the state, then turned completely around in the New York Minimum Wage Case and said the state could not regulate wages. That is why the State of Illinois has now joined the State of New York in asking for a rehearing.

MUNICIPAL BANKRUPTCY

Nullification of the Municipal Bankruptcy Act leaves the cities of the country in a tough spot. The law was originated under the Hoover administration, though passed under Roosevelt. It received the approval of banking circles and of both political parties.

Its chief purpose is to prevent racketeering among little groups of municipal bondholders who attempt to get fancy prices before permitting municipalities to readjust their bond issues.

Any negative action by the Court now would be unpopular, definitely would aid the re-election of Roosevelt. That is the last thing the Court conservatives want to do. Yet they are equally opposed to approving these two acts.

Hence the dilemma. Ordinarily they could postpone a decision. Decisions on regularly argued cases sometimes are postponed for weeks. But these are requests for rehearings. They must be decided within one or two weeks.

Thus the court is almost forced to cast the die before November 3.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET

COPYRIGHT: RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
By winning a $500 slogan contest, Alix Carey carries a promotion advertising agency where she is employed and enlists the personal interest of John Sayre, young president of the agency, whom she secretly admires. Coming to New York following her parents' death, she has made close friends of Kathleen Crosby and her cousin, Kim Preston. Alix grows to know Sayre following a business conference one evening. Kathleen, who is in love with Kim, urges Alix to take up golf as a social weapon. Kim makes love to Alix but she obviously prefers his friendship. Alix is thrilled when John Sayre, noticing her golf clubs, makes a date to play with her the next day, a holiday. Following an enjoyable golf game, John invites Alix to a house party.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 12

THE HOLIDAY was on Tuesday.

On Wednesday at lunch, Alix said to Kathleen Crosby, "Imagine, Kathleen, how beautifully you've casual idea for me to take up golf work into the sort of scheme of things!" Kathleen didn't look at her. She ought to have been ashamed of that deliberate move, she thought, but if it were to mean Alix's happiness as well as her own, she wouldn't feel too bad about it.

If it meant that it would be an agent to draw Alix and John Sayre together and Alix wanted that, it would have been right. If it meant only unhappiness for Alix and if she believed that Alix might care for Kim, it would have been very wrong. For she had deliberately suggested the idea of Alix's learning the game because she knew it was a social weapon.

Connivance, scheming were not in Kathleen's makeup and she surprised herself by having any part of it. But she had believed that Alix's interest in John Sayre was more than the admiration of an employee for her chief.

And while Kathleen felt a very real affection for Alix, Alix was hurting her. Unconsciously, Kathleen knew. Because Alix didn't know how bringing her loveliness and appeal into the lives of Kathleen and Kim, she had threatened the life-long structure that had been so long building between the second cousins.

Had Kathleen been another kind of girl, she might have done one of two things. She might have brought her love for Kim out of hiding, confided in Alix the love that had been there ever since she could remember. Not the easy comrade cousin-and-cousin love but the love of a woman for the one man she knows surely to be her heart's choice forevermore.

Had she done that, both of them might have been spared the unhappiness that lay so surely before them. But she couldn't have. Her love was inarticulate, shy, and she had no premise on which to assume that it was her right. Until Alix came into their lives, there had never been a woman other than herself in Kim's life. Kim had made love to her in silence. Silences that needed no words. It was as much a part of them as their manners, the things they thought, as well as the things they thought. No, she couldn't have told Alix.

Nor could she have taken the other way, to banish Alix from the circle of her life. It would have been so easy to safeguard herself and Kim by simply dropping Alix with the easy, deadly politeness of her class. But she liked her. She couldn't be unfair to her. Even now when she couldn't be sure that Alix was intrigued sufficiently with John Sayre, not intrigued with Kim. Because she loved Kim, she couldn't understand why every other woman in the world didn't.

She was hurt by Kim's failing to tell her when he saw Alix. Hurt, not because she thought that he was deliberately keeping something from her, or because she thought she had any right to know. She was hurt because it seemed so natural for him not to include her, to forget that she might be interested.

All of which was of no doing on Alix's part. She smiled sweetly and sincerely at Alix, "You're like a kid with its first doll, Alix. Tell me all about it."

"There really isn't an awful lot to tell. He happened to come into my office on business . . ."

"Does he make a habit of calling around at the offices of his copy writers?" Kathleen asked interestedly.

"You're like a kid with its first doll, Alix."

"I've never seen him do it before," Alix answered after the briefest hesitation. "Anyway, that just happened. He asked me to play with him the next afternoon. I've never been in such bad form! Then when we were playing the last hole, a man named Hank Powers . . ."

"Stoutish? Red-haired?" Kathleen asked and Alix said he was.

"A very good friend of mine. Well, go on, Alix."

"He was very casual, didn't know that I'm not a friend of Mr. Sayre's and he asked me if I were coming out to the putting contest on Saturday. Then, John . . . Mr. Sayre turned to me and said 'I'd like to have me if I'd like to come, and he called me 'Alix'. Naturally, in front of a stranger, I wasn't going to say, 'Oh, this is so sudden' or that I didn't expect he meant it."

"So you're going?" "So you're going?" "I am, Mr. Powers walked back to the clubhouse with us and sat with us all during supper. It was a buffet and simply grand. It got chilly at night and we sat around the hearth in the trophy room."

"And you drove home by moonlight?" "Kathleen, I think you're having fun with me. Please don't try to turn what was just a pleasant afternoon and evening into a romantic adventure. There wasn't a moon. Or at least, not much of a moon."

"Hurry and go on. So then what happened?" "Nothing happened! I nearly fell asleep on the way home. Fresh air and too much food made me sleepy and first thing I knew we were at the door of my apartment and he was saying, 'Saturday, is it then? Can you catch the 2:10 from Penn? There are some others coming on that train and you'll be met.' I started to say 'but' a few times and he said, 'So, it's all settled' and it seems it is."

"And why not? It sounds jolly to me. Obviously he is having a house party and why not have another attractive girl? By the way, are you still calling each other 'Mr.' and 'Miss'?" "Certainly. He did call me 'Alix' once but I guess that sort of slipped out. I manage to avoid trying to call him anything. Are you quite sure you think it's all right for me to go, Kathleen?"

"I certainly do. And knock them cold. Also, Alix, be careful you don't get an inferiority complex over the thing. Try and forget, if you can, that the relationship between you and Sayre is a business one. Make up your mind that he sought your company because you are attractive to him. And don't get any funny ideas about the difference in your worlds you were talking about one day. I've been on lots of those parties out in that part of the island and you'll run into girls in his own set with manners you'd have been spanked for displaying."

"You make it all sound reasonable," Alix said. "Up to now, it's all seemed a little fantastic. You know, too good to be true and all that sort of thing. Cinderella invited to the palace. The impossible achieved so easily."

"I told you once that nothing was impossible for you if you really wanted it," Kathleen's eyes were on the ceiling and her expression rich with meaning. "And I told you that I have everything I want."

"Don't tempt Fate that way, Alix. I wouldn't dare say a thing like that. Oh, one more thing!" "Yes," Alix called her waitress. "Don't take too many clothes and don't try to outdress anyone."

Kathleen had made John's invitation to Alix sound reasonable. Thinking it over it didn't sound reasonable to John Sayre. He regretted it but he wouldn't have recalled it for the world.

He wasn't a snob but it was simply that he knew it wasn't a good idea to cultivate personal relationships with any girl who worked for him.

The invitation had come as naturally as his first invitation for her to play golf with him. He hadn't intended doing that either yet he knew that Bill Warner had crystallized the thought in him that she was lovely and desiring to be alone with her was inevitable.

She was a surprising girl, different from any he knew. He never knew what to expect from her. Hers was a strange mixture that was both shy and extraordinarily poised. She was a gentlewoman from where he did not know. She had brains and beauty and he didn't think for a moment that she would misunderstand his casual invitation.

Nevertheless he was more than momentarily disturbed when his man told him that Miss Cushing had telephoned from Boston to say that she would be in New York, Friday, and would like to join his party.

How Football Injuries are Prevented, Treated

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

UNDER THE Wisconsin plan, high school football injuries in that state have been reduced one-third—from 93 per 1,000 participants in 1930-1935, to 32 per 1,000 participants in 1935. The ratio in the rest of the country remained the same.

Perhaps this plan would be worth adopting. It was based on a careful study made by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association of the causes of injuries.

The ratio of injuries as given above for high school football is higher than for college and university football, where the injuries average 120 to 140 per thousand participants. But since there are about 650,000 high school boys playing football as against 65,000 collegiate players, the actual figures are higher for the high schools.

Open play is more dangerous than line play. Thirty-six per cent of injuries occurred in lateral and forward pass plays, 22 per cent in end around and off tackle, 12 per cent in kick-offs, 10 per cent in returning punts and 8 per cent in line play. (Twelve per cent unclassified).

Defense play is more dangerous than offense. Forty-two per cent of all injuries were suffered by the tackler, 13 per cent by the blocker, 11 per cent were the result of a player being kicked. Only 5 per cent in pile-ups.

The time of the game showed that most injuries occurred during the first two-thirds of the first half, and shortly after the second half kick-off. The poorly trained boy suffers first. Failure to warm up or limber up before the second half is a factor.

Early Injuries Many Early season injuries are numerous, and this can be laid directly to the coaches or trainers. Thorough hardening and seasoning should be instituted before scrimmaging is begun. Not enough attention is given to the players and too much to the plays. Coaches and officials should remove players who have been injured from the game more frequently. More serious injuries occurred to boys who have had one or more previous "time-outs." Each time out reduces vitality. How often have you seen a boy knocked out, writhing on the ground, urged to get up, run around, by the trainer, and then re-enter the game—dazed and stiff and under par half the time?

So the Wisconsin plan advises:

1. No scrimmage during the first ten days of training.

2. Training in fundamentals—correct tackling and blocking.

3. Thorough physical examination by the family physician. Too many fatalities from heart failure or other organic causes are reported.

6. Age limits—a 19-year-old boy has a 4 per cent chance of injury, as against 17 per cent for a 15-year-old boy.

As to rule recommendations:

1. Return the posts to the goal line and increase value of field goal to four points. (Sixty-five per cent of all injuries occur within the 20-yard line. If field goal were more valuable, it would decrease desperate passing and end plays in this zone.)

2. Rest period between quarters and the length between halves should be increased, and the last three minutes of the latter should be devoted to warming up.

3. Officials should be given power to remove injured players, and vicious players must be ruled off the field.

4. Better rules for protective equipment. Protective zone around field, especially at high school games—ten-yard zone. Many boys are injured by falling or rolling into the players' bench, palls, fence or yardsticks.

"equality" for women, a man should offer his seat in a crowded street car or bus to an elderly woman or one who has a small child with her.

200 Attend Reception At Jones Residence

Judge Matthias, Calvin Price Honored On Sunday

The ideal weather and the increased interest in the Ohio History Day celebration, Sunday, brought out more than 200 for the program and the reception which followed.

The honor guests were Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court, and Calvin W. Price, of Marlinton, W. Va.

ATHENS, O., Oct. 5.—Dr. Irma E. Voight, dean of women at Ohio university, Athens, for the last 24 years, will speak before the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs at Circleville on Thursday, Oct. 8.

Dean Voight, a graduate of the University of Illinois with the A. B. and Ph. D. degrees, is president of the National Association of Deans of Women and a speaker of wide reputation. She has been prominent in state and national affairs of the American Association of University Women, and is director of the Northeast Central section of this organization at the present time. She is also a member of the committee of the National Student Department of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Besides being the nation's "dean of deans of women" and affiliated with the above organizations, Miss Voight is a member of National Collegiate Players, of Kappa Delta Pi, a national education fraternity, a life member of the National Education Association, and an associate member of the American Association of University Professors.

A few years ago Miss Voight attended the Oxford (England) summer school for American university women and was a delegate to the International Federation of University Women in Edinburgh, Scotland. In 1928, she traveled and studied in Europe as a member of the Sherwood Eddy Seminar Group.

In recognition of her long period of extraordinary and distinguished service at Ohio University, the women students of the campus last year raised a fund which was used to procure a portrait of Dean Voight, the work of a prominent American artist. The picture was presented to the University with elaborate ceremonies.

Quoted Manager Wonders
"When" About Pay

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, one of baseball's most popular and colorful characters, was looking for a job today after being dismissed as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stengel's contract with the club runs through the 1937 season and he will be paid in full, Business Manager John Gorman announced. The wise-cracking Casey who was 45 years old this summer, is not on the unemployed list yet. He is acting as an "expert" for a New York newspaper during the world series.

The Brooklyn management did not give him any notice of dismissal. Two club officers, James A. Mulvey, vice president and secretary and Joseph A. Gilleadeau, vice president and treasurer, summoned Stengel to their hotel suite last night.

Aides Go, Top

"The club has not done well financially," Gilleadeau said. "The management has decided to make a change. It was a unanimous decision."

Coaches Otto Miller and Zach Taylor also were released. Gorman announced that no one to replace Stengel had been decided on; that the matter would be considered lengthily in an effort to better the Dodgers.

Stengel, former-manager Max Carey and baseball followers all said it was the "same old story" of the Brooklyn management attempting to "pass the buck" of the Dodgers' failure to make a better showing.

Stengel said as long as the club fulfilled its end of the contract, "I am satisfied." However, he said the two vice presidents would say nothing about "when" the amount of his contract for next year would be paid.

"And that's what I'm interested in right now," he said. "I don't want to be put off as long as Carey was in getting his. I could tell you plenty about mishandling and boneheading by certain Brooklyn officials, but I'm not talking for the present. If they don't lay the dough on the line, though, I'll talk plenty."

Grimes or Ruth?

The name of Burleigh Grimes, manager of the Louisville Colonels in the American association and Babe Ruth were immediately injected into the picture as possible successors to Stengel, but club officers refused even to hint their probable choice. Other speculations for Stengel's job included Dutch Reuther, manager of Seattle in the Pacific coast league, and Oscar Vitt, manager of the International league Newark Bears.

'GUNMEN' MEET TUESDAY AT 7:30 TO FORM CLUB

A meeting of all Circleville men interested in rifle shooting will be held in The Daily Herald office Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. to organize a Circleville Rifle club and to make plans for the establishment of a local league in which it is expected eight or 10 teams will compete.

Members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the National Guard, representatives of service clubs, lodges, industrial groups and other local organizations are invited to the meeting.

In recent weeks a keen interest has been displayed in rifle shooting by a large group of local men. It is believed with proper coaching some good teams can be organized.

YANKEES NEAR TITLE AS FOES' ACE IS BEATEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—Baseball's world championship was one game away from the New York Yankees today.

The ascendancy of the swaggering, slugging American league champions seemed only a matter of hours as the Yanks and Giants moved into the fifth game of the world series at Yankee stadium before an expected throng of 60,000.

Leading three games to one and needing only one more, the Yanks were overwhelming favorites to become world champions for the fourth time in 10 years. If the Giants lose today they're through.

Even King Carl Hubbell, Baseball's No. 1 pitcher, was caught in the maelstrom yesterday as the Yanks took their third straight triumph over the frustrated, floundering National league titleholders.

Hubbell's defeat, 5-2, before 66,669—largest crowd ever to see a world series game—was almost the last straw in a forlorn cause. The Giants seem doomed to succumb to the rampant Yankee power.

They haven't the weapons to fight back on the mound or at bat—in close, tight games or knock-down-and-drag-out slugfests.

To add to the desperation of the Giants' situation, their pitching strength is exhausted. For today's game they must trust to Hal Schumacher, who was so rudely humbled by the Yanks when they battered their way to an 18 to 4 victory in the second game.

WHITE SOX WIN CITY'S SERIES FROM CUB CREW

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—(UP)—Chicago's White Sox retained their city championship today and recorded their 8 to 2 victory over the Cubs Sunday as their ninth straight victory over the National leaguers in the metropolitan competition.

The Cubs swept the 1933 series in four straight and duplicated the feat Sunday behind the steady pitching of Wild Bill Dietrich. While Dietrich held the Cubs to a half dozen blows, the Sox pounded French, Warneke, Lee, Davis and Root for 17.

Game to be Tough

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—Intersectional warfare and red-hot sectional games feature competition on the nation's gridirons this Saturday with Columbus, O., the center of the battles.

Mighty Pittsburgh and Ohio State's high-scoring juggernauts collide there in a game that is certain to remove one of them from consideration for the mythical national title.

Pittsburgh has two victories to its credit this season and Ohio State opened its 1936 campaign on Saturday with an amazing 60-0 triumph over New York university.

Saturday's battles ran surprisingly true to form with St. Mary's 10-0 victory over California the only result that could be labeled an upset.

Two Intersectionals

Two great intersectional games stand out for the coming weekend. University of Southern California, which seems to be heading for the spot it occupied four years ago when it ruled the nation's gridirons, meets the University of Illinois at Urbana. And Southern Methodist, the "eastern" rose bowl team this year, comes to New York for a game with Fordham. The latter opened its season Saturday with an impressive 66-7 victory over Franklin and Marshall.

New York has another top-notch game with Columbia playing Army.

Big Ten competition gets underway with Indiana playing Michigan, and Purdue meeting Wisconsin. Minnesota, favorite for the Big Ten championship and Nebraska, defending champion in the big six, meet in one of the outstanding games of the day. Notre Dame plays Washington U. and Michigan State meets Carnegie Tech.

EBY TO COACH EX-HIGH GRID 11 THIS FALL

Byron Eby, former Chillicothe and Ohio State football star, has taken over the coaching job as a score of former Circleville high school athletes start practice for a season of activity.

All persons seeking places on the team are to report at the east end field at 5 o'clock Tuesday evening for a drill. Earl Imbler is managing the team.

Included in the list of athletes invited to the practice are Bill Hegele, Carl Purcell, John Mader, Doc Ferguson, Gaines Hill, Wilbur Adkins, Sherman Denny, Bill Steele, Jay Henry, John Lewis, Richard Smalley, Merle Davis, Jaggy Davis, Bob Hundley, Dick Melson, John McGinnis, Fred Smith, Lee Cook, and John Jenkins.

WALLACE'S DOG WINS FIRST IN BIG FIELD DAY

Comanche Ziegfeld Jane, pointer owned by Ralph Wallace, E. Union street, took first prize Sunday in the open all-age stake in the field trials at Harrisburg sponsored by the Grove City Sportsmen's Rifle club. Sixteen dogs were entered in this stake. Wallace's dog was the only local entry in the trials.

McLARNIN FAVORED

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(UP)—Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, B. C., one time baby-faced scourge of the welterweight and lightweight divisions, was a 7-5 favorite to whip Tony Canzoneri tonight in their return ten round fight at Madison Square Garden.

PIRATES, BEARS LEAD BY UNIFIED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Bears continued to lead the eastern and western divisions of the National football league today although the Pirates' record was marred by a defeat. The Pirates, who had won two straight, dropped a 27-9 decision to the Bears who scored a pair of touchdowns through the air.

Stan Pinura, the great quarterback of Ohio State's 1935 football team, recently was named assistant football and basketball and head baseball coach at Randolph-Macon college, Ashland, Virginia.

About This And That In Many Sports

Sterling Fan Lost

The death of Glenn I. Nickerson takes from Circleville recreation ball one of its most loyal supporters — Backer of the Circleville Oils, champions for several years and runner-up the season just past, "Nick" was one of the finest sportsmen the city has known — To him and to Frank Lynch must go credit to keeping the league going for so long—He will be missed by everyone who played or enjoyed softball ***

Nickle on Tigers

Bet your bottom nickle the Red and Black takes Westerville next Friday — A Circleville victory would be a great thrill, especially over the Westerville crew — The contest will be tagged a homecoming, but just what will take place to give it that name is not yet certain — There is already a move on to provide more bleachers for next season, and one business man who has had three boys on the football team and will have another in a few years is ready to start the ball rolling with a $25 contribution — Need for more accommodations is great—The performance of Miller, No. 39 guard on the Delaware team last Friday, was termed the dirtiest seen on the Circleville field in years — He used his knee on Don Henry and should have been thrown out of the game, then he slugged Johnny Noggle and did get the trip—Tiger linemen said after the game there was more kneeing and elbowing in the line than in many games they have played—The Tigers were in better condition than their heavier foes, and gave good accounts of themselves — There are many who believe the Red and Black could have scored had the play been opened up, and kept open ***

Still Not So Good?

Ohio States scored only 60 points against N. Y. U., Saturday, but there are still many fans who believe the team did not look so good — Wonder if 120 points would have made the Buck eleven look like champion-ship stuff — The Pittsburgh game next Saturday will truly test the ability of the Schmidtmens ***

Seven Right, Four Wrong

Being the day for alibis, the janitor just doesn't have any—Football predictions went awry in many instances last Saturday—Seven guesses were correct, two were ties, and four were missed — The errors were the Michigan State-Michigan, Marquette-Wisconsin, Dayton-Ohio Wesleyan, and Northwestern-Iowa, the first named teams winning—Ties were Tulane-Auburn and Capital-Bowling Green—Successes were Ohio-N. Y. U., Illinois-Washington U., Vanderbilt-Chicago, Indiana-Centre, Texas Christian-Arkansas, Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech, and Pitt-West Virginia.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Robert Taylor is a young man with a future. In his own mind that future is as clear-cut as the facet of a diamond.

There is something rather amazing about Taylor—and something definitely satisfying. "I was raised on beef, potatoes and beans," Bob remarked on one occasion. "I like them. They are good, staple foods."

Taylor's psychology, his outlook on life, are as sound and solid as his preference in nourishment.

This in itself is amazing—amazing because rapid success has always been considered strong medicine for young men. Satisfying because no amount of polish, no measure of success, can rob Taylor of the stamp of Filley, Nebraska.

AT THE CIRCLE

A picture that rates the raves of every movie fan in town—now showing at the Circle theatre—is Darryl Zanuck's filmization of "Call of the Wild," the immortal Jack London classic of the Yukon gold rush.

Rich in rugged drama and clean fun, the picture exerts a powerful appeal for every member of every family—the youngsters and their dads won't have to be told for they've all thrilled to this most famous of Jack London's tales, and the love story, beautifully played by Clark Gable and Loretta Young will insure the feminine contingent of a grand time.

Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, former world's featherweight boxing champion, is now in the Maderia Islands off the coast of North Africa. He is enroute to Johannesburg for a series of bouts this winter. While board ship Miller boxed daily with an Olympic lightweight who was homeward bound from the Olympic games at Berlin.

HE'S THE CAPTAIN

Walter Roach, T. C. U.
WALTER ROACH, 185-pound senior end who captains the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, has been playing football since he was six years old.

At least that's what Walter says. He started on a neighborhood sand lot team in Fort Worth and it has been his first love in sports ever since. After football, Roach rates, in the order in which they interest him: dancing, chocolate malted milks, hunting, basketball, baseball, tennis, bridge, swimming, boxing and — well, that ought to be about far enough to carry preferences.

For several years Roach has worked during the summer in the Texas oil fields. He would like to make the oil business his life's work. "But I'm an athlete, so I suppose I'll be a coach," he observes.

The Frog captain is working his way through T. C. U. by doing janitor work. He attended Texas Christian (Texas) Junior college one year before coming to T.C.U., and made his way there by serving as member of the city's fire department.

Although he is a senior and the captain of the team, Walter still is a quiet, shy sort of boy.

In his sophomore, junior years won letters at end in football, and in basketball and outfield in baseball. He will probably win again this year, ending up with letters in three major

500 HEAR JUDGE MATTHIAS DEFEND CONSTITUTION AT LOGAN ELM

ANNUAL HISTORY DAY OBSERVED AT STATE PARK

Editor Price Discusses Lord Dunmore, Other Historical Items

MAYOR GRAHAM HEARD

John Carlisle and Mrs. Jones Have Parts

An ideal fall day, an interesting program and a crowd of approximately 1,500 persons combined Sunday afternoon for a successful celebration of the 24th annual Ohio History Day at Logan Elm state park.

Principal speakers were Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court, and Calvin W. Price, editor of the Pocahontas Times of Marlinton, W. Va.

Defense of the Constitution as the "supreme law of the land" was the feature of the address by Judge Matthias. "It was a constructive work of a body of patriots assembled to found a nation, to form a government strong enough to perpetuate the liberties for which they had fought and for which they had so dearly paid," the judge said.

Above, Beyond Kings "It was the first charter of government to place the law above and beyond kings, presidents, and governors; above generals, armies and military power. All earthly authority was made subordinate and must be exercised under and in accordance with the Federal Constitution."

"Under the Constitution we have grown into the mighty republic of today. New states have come into the Union, large territories have been acquired, population and wealth increased, vast resources developed, all of which accomplishments have challenged the admiration of the world. In no other land is there such a shield of protection to the individual citizen; for under that Constitution, life, liberty and property have been secure beneath the flag which it itself the symbol of country and Constitution."

"We have no room in America for those who have come seeking the benefits and advantages of our institutions or government, and then, by subtle and subversive influence and action, threaten to undermine and destroy them. "Relief funds could be employed wisely to relieve the country of them and aid in keeping American institutions of government safe and secure for the American people. Those who do not like our form of government, or are adverse to American institutions should return or be returned to the lands of the Stalins, Hitlers or Mussolinis. Let this continue to be the great American Republic."

Depends on Rank, File "Whether this republic goes on to its hoped for destiny does not depend on those who framed the Constitution or those who adopted it; it does not depend on the executive, judicial or legislative branches of the government, or all of them together; it does not depend on those occupying positions of trust and responsibility in either or all of the branches of government. It depends on the rank and file of our American citizens of today and upon the training of the boys and girls who will constitute that citizenship of tomorrow."

On this anniversary there comes an appeal for a militant American patriotism; an appeal on behalf of our institutions of government founded by great patriots, and defended and preserved by noble heroes and by them passed on to us with honor unsullied and glory undiminished; an appeal for a strong, sturdy, sterling, stalwart American citizenship that will at all time promote that righteousness that exalted a nation."

Dunmore's History Mr. Price, related early history of John Murray, or Lord Dunmore, concerning his expedition into Ohio. He gave also interesting, historical points on Timber Ridge, Va., a district settled by the Scotch-Irish. Pioneer families of this district spread over the country and many prominent patriots were descendants of these early families.

Mayor W. J. Graham presented address of welcome. He related Cincinnati's industries, churches, and pointed out many advantages this city offers its residents. John F. Carlisle of Columbus, Ohio vice president, presided at the meeting, and gave introductory remarks on the purpose of the celebration. "The object and purpose of the celebration," he said, "is to draw public attention on early Ohio history and to emphasize the importance of this particular day. The majority of those who attended previous years' celebrations were from a small portion of

ITALY APPROVES 40 PER CENT CUT IN LIRA'S VALUE

ROME, Oct. 5.—(UP)—The Italian cabinet today approved an approximate 40 per cent devaluation of the Lira, reduced import duties as a protective measure and made a motion towards the general movement for world currency stabilization.

An Ethiopian "victory loan" to which Italian estates must subscribe, was approved. The loan is to be used to exploit the new empire obtained by conquest. Estates must subscribe 5 per cent of their total value to it.

Premier Benito Mussolini told the cabinet he accepted in principle—as exemplified by the recent accord of the United States, Great Britain, and France on money—that economic restoration of the world is "one of the necessary conditions for collaboration among the peoples for maintenance of peace."

"It is necessary, however, to abandon temporary settlements and enter the field of permanent adjustment," he added.
